Clinical School Academic Women’s Forum

The Academic Women’s Forum in the School of Clinical Medicine provides the opportunity for senior and trainee academic women to meet, share advice, talk about their experiences and develop ways to support each other. They hold events throughout the year on a variety of topics including ‘Confident Ways of Working’ and ‘Furthering Your Career’.

For PIs/Honorary Consultants...

We hold regular get-togethers on the Biomedical Campus to meet colleagues, share advice and experience, and develop ways to support both senior and junior academic women

For postdocs and trainees...

If you have questions about career development

- If you would like advice about research outside of your supervisory relationships
- If you need a mentor
- If you just want someone to talk to about your career, your work, balancing the different pressures...

...then the Clinical School’s senior academic women will be happy to hear from you.

There is a list of women prepared to act as academic mentors on the AWF website here: http://awf.medschl.cam.ac.uk/forum-mentors/

For more information about the AWF please see our website http://awf.medschl.cam.ac.uk/

The Academic Women's Forum is led by Professor Christie Deaton (PHPC), Dr Anna Philpott (Oncology) and Dr Helle Jorgensen (Medicine) and supported by the NIHR Cambridge Biomedical Research Centre.

If you would like to be added to the mailing list to receive information on forthcoming events, please email Vicky Smallbone (vs351@medschl.cam.ac.uk).
